

POLITICAL DEVELOPMENTS

1916

Simla deputation

Note: Muslim leaders met the British in Simla to demand separate representation in government. This led to increased political recognition for Muslims.

Image idea: Group of leaders meeting British officials.

1916

all india muslim league

Note: The Muslim League became a key political party representing Muslim interests in India.

1917

Minto-Morley Reforms

Note: These reforms introduced separate electorates for Muslims and increased Indian participation in governance.

1916

Lucknow Pact

Note: The Congress and Muslim League agreed on joint political action and shared demands, showing cooperation between Hindus and Muslims.

1919

Bengal Partition Protest

Note: People opposed the division of Bengal by the British, leading to political activism and protests.

1927

Nehru Report

Note: Proposed a constitution for India, suggesting dominion status and joint electorates, but Muslims rejected it due to concerns over minority rights.

1928

Simon Commission

Note: British set up a commission to propose constitutional reforms, but no Indian members were included, sparking nationwide protests.

1939

Day of Deliverance

Note: Celebrated by Muslims to mark resignation of Congress ministries in provinces, showing the political tensions between communities.